HISTORY

Ivy Business Centre operates from the historical Ivy Mill building in a town called Failsworth and is steeped in history. Until the 19th century, Failsworth was a small agricultural township linked, ecclesiastically, with the parish of Manchester. The Ivy Mill itself housed 75,000 spindlers used regularly on a daily basis, to produce 800,000 yards of cotton at its peak. Production of cotton ceased in 1939 in response to WWII in order to produce the famous Lancaster Bomber which brought King George to visit Ivy Mill.
