CLOCKWORK ORANGE

£20p/h
(£25 non-members)

Meeting room for up to 4 people.

Inspiration behind the name

Stanley Kubrick filmed the majority of this chilling cult classic across London, but filmed the scene where 'Droogs' attack a man in a subway in Wandsworth's Southern underpass.

LOVE ACTUALLY

£30p/h
(£40 non-members)

Meeting room for up to 6 people.

Inspiration behind the name

Who could forget Hugh Grant's famous quote in this feel good Christmas film, "to Wandsworth, the dodgy end".

THE IRON LADY

£40p/h
(£50 non-members)

Meeting room for up to 8 people.

Inspiration behind the name

Many scenes of this biographical drama film based on the life of the first female Prime Minister were filmed in Wandsworth.

MILL ON THE FLOSS

£40p/h
(£50 non-members)

Meeting room for up to 8 people.

Inspiration behind the name

Filmed in areas of Wandsworth, this 1936 drama film is based on George Eliot's 1860 novel which he wrote whilst living on Wandsworth Park Road.

CAPTAIN CORELLI

£50p/h
(£60 non-members)

Meeting room for up to 10 people.

Inspiration behind the name

Louis de Bernières lived in Earlsfield while he was writing Captain Corelli's Mandolin. The book was later turned into a film, starring Nicholas Cage.

IN THE NEIGHBOURHOOD

Riverside views? Check. Green space? Check. Independent cafés, restaurants and shops? Check, check, check. With its villagey vibe, Wandsworth Town is fast becoming a magnet for London's young, cool crowd. This inner suburb is packed full of brunch spots, breweries and proper pubs, not to mention some of South West London's best-loved parks.
